

Press Release – For Immediate Release

Hunter Systems Group, Inc. and Ayonix Inc. Team Together to Distribute Facial Recognition Products to U.S Public Safety Departments

Hunter Systems Group’s and Ayonix’s New Venture Provides Law Enforcement New Tools to Identify Individuals

Scituate, MA. January 5, 2011. Hunter Systems Group, Inc., a premier software and consulting company for the public and private safety sectors, and Ayonix Inc., a leading software company specializing in facial and object recognition, today announced a distribution arrangement whereby Hunter Systems Group, Inc., incorporating technology used for Ayonix’s products Ayonix Public Security and Facematcher, will develop and distribute facial recognition technology products for use by public safety and law enforcement agencies. These new facial recognition products shall provide law enforcement new tools for identifying suspects using both video capture techniques as well as still photographs and mug shots, while still maintaining Hunter Systems’ capabilities to offer more efficient and cost effective products to law enforcement and private concerns.

“We at Hunter Systems Group are looking forward to our new business arrangement with Ayonix” comments Mark Thompson, President of Hunter Systems Group, Inc. “Facial Recognition is an increasingly mainstream technology that is being used by governmental agencies to assist in criminal investigation and to identify criminal activities. The products that Hunter Systems Group, Inc. and Ayonix Inc. are distributing will provide organizations and agencies alike with effective, easy-to-use, crime-detering expertise at reasonable costs. Further, these products may still be fully integrated with a department’s existing records management system and Hunter’s full array of public safety products.”

“Ayonix is excited about this opportunity to enter into the U.S. market with our state-of-the-art facial recognition technology Facematcher and Ayonix Public Security,” stated Ayonix president Sadi Vural, “We believe our business pairing with Hunter Systems Group, Inc. will be beneficial to public and private safety concerns throughout all levels of law enforcement and security.”
